Ch 9 Forces Inside Earth

So when one of the objects is earth, then the relevant distance .
 $d = \text{radius of the earth} + \text{distance of other object from earth's surface}$.
 $66.4 \times 10^6 \text{ m}$ (2) Even very very far from earth, its gravitational force is never actually zero, but it does decrease rapidly and forces from other more nearby objects would overwhelm the grav force from earth.

Momentum of a system remains conserved if no external force acts on the system. In the given example, there is gravitational force acting on the ball which is an external force, so it is not an example of conservation of momentum. Question 14: Velocity versus time graph of a ball of mass 50 g rolling on a concrete floor is shown in figure.
